Meet Glenn Warren Lystad, a Brooklyn lad who’s starting early to be selective about his television viewing. He’s leaning on TV GUIDE, of course.

Actually, Glenn is too busy sleeping and gaining weight to worry much about television these days. We publish his picture chiefly because he’s such an appealing child, and also because he is a member of the generation that will not remember the early days of TV, when programs were few and far between and viewers would watch anything that was on the air.

Chances are he will be much more critical of television than his parents when he grows up and starts taking notice. And if that happens, sponsors will have to present better and better programs to attract young Mr. Lystad’s attention.

Reader Lystad

The key to television’s maturity, we are certain, is in possession of the viewers. Sponsors pay for programs they think the public wants. Their thinking is based on ratings. If ratings prove viewers are not tuning in, the sponsor finds a new show. So the way to get better television programs is to refrain from watching bad television programs.

TV GUIDE fits into the scheme of TV progress by giving you complete, detailed listings that help you make your choice of shows. Our reviews also help if you like to read someone else’s opinion, compare it with your own, and then come to your own decision. From there on television’s future is in your hands. That is, until Glenn and his contemporaries grow up and take over.—M. P.

NEW YORK  Bob Stahl reports:

ARTHUR GODFREY, after his arrival in Massachusetts General Hospital, still supervised his various TV shows. He watched each program on a set installed next to his bed and phoned in his criticisms while the show was still on the air. Several of the guest stars replacing him were reportedly peeved at the treatment.

JUNE VALLI leaving Your Hit Parade at the end of this season to try her luck at her own half-hour program in the fall. Her replacement is expected to be named shortly . . . RUTH GILBERT, who plays MILTON BERLE's secretary, is another who wants to branch out. Other comedy programs have been seeking her as a guest star, but her contract with BERLE will not permit it.

* * *

ED SULLIVAN leaves for a three-week European vacation after his anniversary show. GRACIE FIELDS will probably be guest emcee on Toast of the Town June 21. TONY MARTIN has been signed for that role June 28, and VICTOR BORGE on July 5 . . . JANE FROMAN and her husband, airlines pilot JOHN BURNS, plan to spend the summer deep-sea fishing off the coast of Maine.

* * *

As proof of TV's ability to build a star's earning power, RED BUTTONS draws $12,500 per week for his engagement at a Las Vegas night club this summer. That's more than he has ever earned for a personal appearance.

* * *

American National Theater and Academy preparing a new half-hour dramatic series for TV presentation. Broadway producer VINTON FREELEY, who emceed ANTA's Shoutime, USA several seasons ago, will again be program host . . . U.S. Steel entering the TV sponsor lists next fall with a video version of its Theater Guild on the Air, long-time radio series.

WALLY COX, anxious to escape all ties with his Mr. Peepers characterization this summer, plans to grow a mustache and buy a beret for his vacation trip to France . . . DENNIS DAY filming six half-hour shows with JACK BENNY this summer, for use on BENNY's TV program next season . . . Various name stars will replace WALTER WINCHELL for the summer, doing their own specialties rather than a news program.

* * *

MARIE WILSON and her My Friend Irma show may be absent from TV next fall. The sponsor, disappointed in a recent slump in ratings, has canceled the program. CBS will revive it only if a new sponsor is found.

Newsmen call on Godfrey in hospital. On bed is frame to aid in treatment.

ARTHUR GODFREY’S Bedside Manner

Five pictures of a cheerful patient in the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. He’s Arthur Godfrey, of course, and these photos were made on the eve of surgery for hip trouble which he has suffered since an auto accident years ago. These photos certainly are proof that his spirit is undaunted.

He answers the phone to give a decision to an aide. Later, calls were not taken.

‘Was that close!’ He tells how near his plane came to crowds on his arrival.

‘Ah, this tea is brisk.’ He tries a commercial from bed on eve of operation.
Can Record Stars Crash TV?

Some Have, But Others Can’t Find Answer; Here’s What They Need to Hit the Top

EDDIE FISHER returned to civilian life recently after a two-year Army stint to step directly into his twice-weekly program on NBC. It was the hit records released during Eddie’s GI hitch which sustained his popularity and made his TV sponsors certain that he’d click in the new medium.

Where most of TV’s top comedians have cut their teeth on burlesque, vaudeville and the borscht circuit, TV’s singing stars, almost without exception, have stepped directly from recording studios into the TV studios. Besides Eddie, such song stylists as Perry Como, Dinah Shore, Patti Page and Mindy Carson had several hit records to their credit before being tapped for their own TV shows.

But no vocalist yet has received per week for a booking at a top night spot or theater. But Eddie finds the public goodwill gleaned from getting out to meet his fans in person is a major factor in his success. To him, any acting experience gained is relatively unimportant.

Perry Como has more hit records than any other male singer on television. These, coupled with his CBS program, should be enough to cement his popularity. Yet Perry finds it necessary to take at least two months off each summer to play night club and theater dates.

Touring Is Necessary

Patti Page, whose recording of Tennessee Waltz sky-rocketed her to fame, spends more time on the road than she does in New York. Immediately after she finishes each TV program, she takes off for another night club or theater engagement. This “getting to know you” system with her fans makes her TV show a success, and certainly boosts her record sales.

Mindy Carson, star of TV’s Club Embassy, now awaiting birth of her second child, had several hit records before launching her TV career. Between her TV and record dates, she has played hotel night spots around the country.

Dinah Shore was a radio star first. She’s a starring contract in TV simply because one or two of his recordings zoomed past the 1,000,000 sales mark. Even more important are the poise, assurance and dramatic technique gained from meeting the public face to face. This requires personal appearances in night clubs and vaudeville and not just appearances in a recording studio.

Eddie is a case in point. While he admits that “it’s fortunate if you can start your own TV show with a few hit records in your background,” he is certain that his engagements at the Paramount Theater on Broadway and New York’s famed Copacabana night club were just as important in getting him his own TV program.

Appearances Boost Income

As with most TV-record stars, Eddie counts on these personal appearances to boost his annual income. He’s paid anywhere from $2,500 to $5,000 one of the few who has concentrated mostly on TV and records during the last few years, but she too still plays an occasional hotel show. Jane Froman, on the other hand, was mainly a night club star before TV. But her records are best-sellers and she broke into TV via guest shots. June Valli is a switch on the others. Only after she had won her spurs on TV, with the old Stop the Music and then Your Hit Parade, was she signed to a recording contract.

TV Attracts Newcomers
The newer crop of record artists is also expected to follow the recording studios-to-TV route. After Joni James clicked with her recording of Why Don’t You Believe Me, she was flooded with offers for TV guest appearances and theater and night club dates. Now several networks are bidding for her to star in her own TV show.

Mel Tormé and Teresa Brewer, both well-known via their recordings, will team this summer as replacements for Jane Froman on TV. Bob Eberle and Helen O’Connell, who hit the bigtime with their records while singing with the old Jimmy Dorsey band, are reuniting this summer to replace Perry Como.

Rosemary Clooney, after several smash records, found both Hollywood and TV bidding for her. Her Paramount Pictures contract for a time kept her out of TV, but she has now been lined up for an NBC show.

Doris Day, on the other hand, has a Warner Bros. contract which will not permit TV appearances, even as a guest.

While best-selling records are important in zooming a singer to popularity peaks, most agree that record-making alone will not excite the interest of TV producers. Show business personality is needed and that is developed when the record-buying public meets its favorites face to face. That is why most TV singing stars will continue their personal appearances.
Ann Sheridan: TV viewers will see her in Malaya Incident this Thursday (June 18).
HOLLYWOOD STARS SAMPLE NEW FARE

HOLLYWOOD'S "name" stars are getting their first taste of television in banner numbers in the Ford Theater series of telefilms being presented over the NBC network.

With a series of 39 films already completed and contracts signed for an additional 39, it means that Hollywood's top luminaries—not only actors and actresses, but writers and directors—will be lending their talents to the entertainment of TV audiences.

The list of headliners—45 motion picture stars have appeared in the 39 films already completed—will be augmented by the top stars scheduled to appear in Ford's big show on Monday (June 15).

It hasn't been easy to lure movie-land's stars into television and a major job along these lines has been done by Screen Gems, Inc., television subsidiary of Columbia Pictures Corp., which produced the Ford Theater films.

The success of the venture—the show maintained a five-month Neilson rating of 34.9—left no doubt that Hollywood's stars have as much draw in television programs as on theater marquees.

Ann Sheridan Stars

Glamorous stars like Ann Sheridan, Maureen O'Sullivan and Merle Oberon have headlined individual shows as have such outstanding character actors as Broderick Crawford and Herbert Marshall.

Recent shows have included Jane Greer and William Ching in Look for Tomorrow, Dick Haymes and Dawn Addams in Sweet Talk Me, Jackson, Paul Henreid and Marjorie Lord in The Jewel, and Ann Harding and Walter Abel in There's No Place Like Home.

The list also has included such stars as Preston Foster, Virginia Grey, Philip Carey, Will Rogers, Jr., Peter Lawford, Terry Moore and others of equal stature.

Players Like Television

The stars, by and large, like the speed of making telefilms. "It keeps you close to the characterization," they explain, "so you keep the right mood and the right touch."

Merle Oberon said that after her long absence in Europe, she felt that "the quickest way to remind fans that I was back in Hollywood was to do a television show."

"I see no reason why an actress cannot combine television and motion picture careers," she added. "I believe they are mutually helpful."

Screen Gems also has recruited such top-flight Hollywood talent as Jules Bricken and Irving Starr, producers; Fred Briskin, production executive; Robert Stevenson, James Neilson, Ted Post, and Lewis Allen, directors. Its writing talent has included Frederick Hazlett Brennan, Edward Hope, Karen DeWolf, Mary McCall, Jr., Cyril Hume, and others.

The record indicates that it will be only a matter of time until more top Hollywood stars take the TV plunge.
OVERS of good television — the critics, that is—noted with a certain cautious optimism the ratings covering the last part of the 1951-52 TV season. The source of their high hopes was the sudden decline in popularity of Milton Berle, who had reigned for three and one-half years as the unchallenged kingpin of TV. Having characterized Berle’s work as vulgar, crass, disreputable and “the embodiment of bad taste” the critics could only analyze his popularity as a reflection of the public’s poor judgment. When the decline came, they joyously interpreted it as an awakening of viewers to higher entertainment values. By the end of the season, Berle had vanished from the list of 20 top-rated shows. Here indeed was a triumph for culture, enlightenment.
But, lo, in September of 1952, Berle was back with a changed format for his show and his rating started climbing upward again. Miltie, whose old TV character was that of an obnoxious braggart who constantly got his come-upance, had a new personality.

Miltie Now Lovable

He was now lovable. The critics who had screamed for his scalp previously couldn't fathom the new Berle. John Crosby wrote, "Aw, Miltie, go on back and be your old repulsive self." But the Berle rating continued to climb. By mid-May of this year it was almost unbelievable. The new, ultralovable Miltie was number two in the ratings, closing in on I Love Lucy, the show that had knocked him off the top in the first place.

Before, during and after Miltie's decline, the marquee at NBC's huge Center Theater on the edge of Rockefeller Center had always proclaimed Milton Berle as Mr. Television. While Miltie's rating was low, the marquee was pointed at in derision by people who claimed that Miltie was living in a dream world and still thought he was king. Apparently the inscrutable marquee knew better than Berle's de-riders. With only Lucy, a woman, ahead of him, Miltie has indisputably won back his title as Mr. Television.

A Classic Study

The return to glory of Milton Berle is a classic study of a man coming to his senses. For four television seasons, Miltie's mode of operation was to give his public thick doses of Milton Berle—squirted with seltzer, smeared with custard pies, dressed in outrageous women's clothes, inserting himself into jugglers' or singers' acts—but always Berle. For more than three years, it worked. When it stopped working, it took a while for Miltie to adjust to the idea that a change was in order. But adjust he did.

Miltie's conclusions: "When an entertainer is hot and fresh, he can be on weekly for a couple of seasons. After that, watch out. Scarcity of appearance becomes very important. The less you're seen, the more impact you'll have. So I cut down my appearances considerably."

As to the change in format, Miltie, backed by his manager and constant companion, Irving Gray, has this to say, "When we started out, we made everything as broad as possible. You know, platter jokes—jokes that are served up on a platter so you can't miss them. Naturally our show appealed more to the kids. As the television public grew larger, we began losing out on the older audience that wanted something a little more sophisticated.

"The show was always 'The Trials and Tribulations of Milton Berle.' Only this year we have worked up situations and a format so that the public will be let in on the fact. Before it was that way, but we never said so. Now we do. Me worrying about rehearsals and about being outshone by my guests. By fitting it into one large format, it has allowed us to take a more adult approach."

To many people in the business, Miltie's prize move was the signing of Goodman Ace, one of the top two or three comedy writers in the radio and television industry. Berle's reluctance to share a spotlight with anyone is familiar, yet he goes out of his way to praise Ace’s part in the Berle comeback. With almost boyish enthusiasm, Miltie once said, “He’s the Ace and I’m the King. How could we help but go to the top?” Notice who got top billing.

The relationship between Ace and Berle is somewhat difficult to comprehend. Ace writes a TV column for the Saturday Review which is severe with practically everything on the air. Since Berle was the favorite target of the critics, it seemed hard to believe that Ace would become associated with Miltie. When asked how such a stern critic could lower himself by turning around and writing for Milton Berle, Ace has a stock answer, “I worked for 15 years writing good stuff (Easy Aces) and nobody paid any attention to it. Now I can write for a big audience and still squeeze in some clever material.”

Stranger still is the mutual respect between Berle and Ace. Miltie assumes that audiences are too dumb to catch on to anything but the broadest of jokes. Often Berle will complain that some joke of Goodman’s is “too intelligent for my audience.” Then Ace goes through the process of persuading Miltie that the intelligence of audiences has improved since Berle started out in the old burlesque houses. In most cases Ace wins out.

What essentially has happened to the Berle program is that everything has been toned down, jokes spring more out of characters and situations and a regular cast of characters has been developed — Bobby Sherwood, Mrs. Goldberg and Maxie the secretary. Slowly the veteran comic is learning that jokes springing naturally out of character are vastly important to a well-integrated program.

In this respect, Berle defers more and more to Ace’s judgment. Up to the moment the show goes on the air now, Miltie will approach Goodman and say, “Is there anything you want changed? I’ll do anything you want.” This is regarded as a fantastic change for a man long known as the supreme egotist.

As an aide on the Berle show said, “Miltie is mellowing. Those years of hard knocks are beginning to wear off. He’s more human now. It’s an amazing thing, but he’s growing up with his audience.” —Bob Cunniff.

Chicago Teletype

TV’s Week: While Bergen Evans vacations in England for three weeks, Down You Go! panelists will take turns as emcee. On June 19 Toni Gilman will shoot questions and clues, and Fran Coughlin becomes bossman for the June 26th telecast. Fran Allison guest stars on both these stanzas. Meanwhile in London, the witty Dr. Evans will act as moderator on the BBC-TV version of Down You Go!

CBS won hands down over other networks in the battle to get Coronation films to the U.S. from England via speed plane flights. But both ABC and NBC were on the air first with their films on “C” day, thru the simple expedient of hooking in on the transmission offered by Canadian webs.

This Is Show Business may emerge as a night club act this summer, with panelist Sam Levenson adding a comedy monologue for nifty customers.

Bobby Van Deventer, alias “Bobby McGuire,” will graduate this month from Duke University about the same time that Johnnie McPhee, the lad who replaced him as juvenile member of 20 Questions, will get a diploma from Princeton.

Advance Tips on Shows: Molly Goldberg’s “yoo-hoo” will be yodeled over the air waves again this summer when The Goldbergs subs for Dennis Day, starting July 3. Gertrude Berg, scripter and star of the popular situation comedies, is readying a new video series built around a musical background.

Mike Stokey’s Pantomime Quiz, a pioneer Hollywood teleshow, replaces Mama on CBS for eight weeks starting July 10.

Shows in the Works: If time clearance jells, an hour-long Theater Guild drama will be seen regularly on TV next fall—most likely over ABC. Skedded for alternate week showings, the new video entry will be tabbed U. S. Steel Theater and will cost an estimated $40,000 per session.

Caustic Monty Woolley is all set to beard TV. He’ll narrate and act in a short-story series, backed by veteran thespians Blanche Yurka and Sheppard Strudwick.

More on “Victory”

It affords me great pleasure to learn that Mrs. L. Petho is ONE who acknowledges that ALL do not appreciate musical masterpieces. What is she trying to put over, her eruditions . . . ? . . . The music is still too LOUD on Victory at Sea. The audibility of the narrator is greatly muffled . . . no music necessary. Why doesn’t she watch the picture instead of straining her ears on the masterpieces?

Reply to Ed’s note: You are so right about Rodgers’ music conforming to any mood . . . It puts my household in the mood to turn off that noisy program.—E. N. Eaglesham, Riverside, Ill. [We’re with Mrs. Petho—Ed.]

Plug for Dave

Hope Dave Garroway stays on his early morning broadcast. Our family enjoys his program very much . . . there’s never very much in your magazine on him, and we’d enjoy reading more about him.—A Reader, Wheaton, Ill.—[See last week’s issue.—Ed.]

Gangsters Beware

Never, never let Tom Conway or Frank Burke get away! They are magnificent in their roles as Inspector Mark Saber and Sgt. Maloney of Homicide Squad. They’re my idea of what a pair of detecting guys should measure up to. Please let them know they have an ardent fan in Chicago, where cops and robbers is quite a game.—Mrs. Helen Tyger, Chicago.

Good Word for the Day

Why are people always crabbing? Do they like their friends and neighbors to find fault with everything they do? How much better to hand out a little honest praise now and then. For instance, aren’t Warren Hull and John Daly nice people—aren’t Lu Ann Simms and Joan Alexander sweet dolls—aren’t Gracie Allen and Lucille Ball beloved screw-balls—aren’t George Fenniman and Tony Martin handsome?—Jane Kolbaugh, West Olive, Mich. [Aren’t you kind?—Ed.]

Boynton, Take Notice

I certainly would like to congratulate someone for changing “Connie’s” hairdo. Our Miss Brooks (Eve Arden) is much more becoming with short hair . . . Always before, I had the urge to get the scissors, reach out and cut her hair to suit myself. Maybe Mr. Boynton will wake up and see the cute miss that he won’t find in his test tubes.—Mrs. James Slave, Dyer, Indiana.
Every Sunday night Chicago’s great lakefront stadium, Soldier Field, vibrates to the drone of racing engines and the roars of enthusiastic spectators enjoying America’s most upsurging sport—stock car racing. Crowds, ranging up to 50,000, have in past seasons converged on the mammoth outdoor site to watch these hard-fought contests.

Now television is giving the home audience a trackside seat at the thrilling spectacles. Last month WBKB began the first of a series of telecasts of these speed tilts. Sponsored by a local finance firm, HFC, these half-hour programs will be carried Sundays at 10 p.m. throughout the summer. Dick Bingham, Windy City newcomer getting his first crack at a major TV operation, describes the races while Ed Pazdur of TV Guide assists from the infield with color coverage.

To further promote the sport which is building up avid followings, TV Guide will have a hand in a poll to choose the fans’ favorite among the drivers competing in the Soldier Field shows. Voting will be supervised by TV Guide under HFC auspices, with the winner receiving a console TV set.

Stock car racing has seized the public fancy in a big way in recent years with alert promoters pre-empting every prairie and sandlot that could be converted into a remote facsimile of a racing site. Too often such promotions have been run in haphazard style with added risks not only to the drivers but to the spectators as well.

Run on Reasonably Safe Basis

The Soldier Field shows represent a move upward on the part of this exciting sport to the big-time. As staged by the Chicago Automobile Racing Ass’n., the races manage to be reasonably safe, if never tame. The speeds alone which the cars attain—up to 60 mph on the straightaway and as high as 45 mph on the turns—insure palpitations galore while the breakneck tactics of these fearless gas jockeys prove equally rough on the nerves. There are plenty of broken ribs, busted legs and concussions, but there hasn’t been a fatal accident on the Soldier Field strip during the six years the races have been run there.

Credit for this fine record must go to both drivers and management. The Soldier Field officials see that all precautions are taken—cars are reinforced, all glass is removed and safety devices which help a man withstand a jolting impact are in working order. There are also pit crews and ambulances standing by for all emergencies.

The drivers themselves are savvy to all the tricks of the stock car trade. All top-flight men attracted by the healthy purses, they’re a colorful crew although their names (Tom Pistone, Allen Swenson and Larry Udo) don’t register with the average sports fan. Most of them have prosaic weekly jobs as clerks, salesmen, mechanics or white collar workers but come Sunday they’re ready for another hazardous and headlong try at the “big money.”

Telecasts Catch Feature Races

The new weekly telecasts are timed to capture the most exciting part of the evening’s action. Viewers see the feature race, a 25 to 40 lap affair in which the outstanding drivers of earlier heats compete, and a novelty race. This last is an all-out contest in which the various drivers try to butt, bull and crowd one another out of competition and off the track itself. The last survivor of this wild-and-woolly “road-oo” wins.

The stock car driver who emerges as Soldier Field’s best in the poll will encounter, it is hoped, no such dangers but no less competition. Nominations are now being accepted. You can send your entries on post cards to Stock Car Poll, c/o TV Guide, 185 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago 1, Ill.
ARE THE PANELISTS GENIUSES?

by JACK MABLEY

Minute Reviews:

Twenty Questions: A year or so ago I offered to set up a lie detector test for panelists on any of the New York quiz shows to give them a chance to prove that there are no tip-offs, no advance clues, no hints—no dirty work. The offer still stands.

The other night on Twenty Questions the answer was "the pitcher's mound at Wrigley Field." The panel made a few preliminary questions, not even close, and then asked in succession, "Is it in Illinois or Michigan?" "Is it in sports?" "Is it Wrigley Field, Chicago?" They'd had absolutely no clues to point to Wrigley Field.

On the problem "Ike's golfing shoes" the first question asked, cold, was "is the animal material leather?" Are they brilliant? Are they lucky? Or is there a tipoff?

Miller at Midnight: I saw only part of the show (some people sleep after midnight, and I'm one of them) but it seemed a cut above the music and chatter shows usually dished out late in the evening. Miller acted unlike a radio disk jockey and kept relatively quiet while Frankie Laine told the story of his struggles. Didn't see a single commercial in more than 20 minutes, and the music was pretty good. How about Miller at Mid-evening—say around 9:30 or 10.

Stock Car Races (Sunday nights, WBBM-TV): Soldier Field is an ideal setup for getting pictures of the races and crackups, and the show is a good change from the routine sports of TV. The announcer was using clichés that went out with Ted Husing—"Believe you me anything can happen and probably will"—and didn't give us much information on who was doing what. Also it's Soldier Field—not Soldiers Field. This may seem picayune, but it's a fine and touchy point with some factions in Chicago.

Channel 11: We're looking forward to getting the educational station, but it will spoil one small pleasure for me. Channel 11 on my TV set brings in FM radio station WFMF, with nothing but music all day and night. It's a wonderfully peaceful oasis to turn to when you get a little too much of "Strange Things Are Happening" or "Ooooooouuh Miltie." No commercials, either.

Bob Hope: The Comedy Hour from Chicago was one of Hope's best. Whether this man scores seems to depend a lot on how he's feeling. I got the impression that Chicago had left him relaxed and happy, for that's the kind of a show he gave. Our Chicago actors and Don McNeill did well, as you'd expect. Side-light—the DeCastro Sisters had reinforcements sewn in the V of their dresses. Hope said they came directly from Las Vegas. Necklines are lower in LV than in TV.

Durocher and Day: Lippy and Laraine, Phil Cavaretta was guest on the first show seen in Chicago. It was a light, moderately informative 15 minutes of baseball chatter. The Durochers have an abundance of charm and showmanship. Phil was happy because his team was playing pretty good ball when the show was filmed. Them was the days.
It came as no great shock to Tom Duggan, the scrappy sportscaster, when he was fired in his final hassle with NBC. It just happened sooner than he'd expected!

The controversy which has made Chicago a battleground in recent weeks revolved around the network's insistence that Tom clear his script before air time. It felt that he'd ignored that clause in his contract once too often, and therefore, closed its doors to him for good. They were shut, claims Tom, before the brave boy's contract was fully paid off—the sum being a tidy $10,000.

No Hard Feelings

Duggan asserts that NBC executive Jules Herkuveaux told him not to fret—he'd personally see to it that Tom was "taken care of." Duggan thinks it was a fine gesture, but has his lawyers working on the matter anyway. To date, he hasn't done much in the way of following through beyond the preliminary steps—just hasn't had time. Naturally, he wants the spoils of war, but says he won't devote all his time to getting them. With lifted eyebrow, he speculates, "How long can $10,000 carry you anyway?"

The undaunted Irishman claims that he holds no grudge against NBC or its brass. Maybe it's disgust that causes him to add, "Of course, I think they're a bunch of chowder-heads."

NBC, on this issue, feels that Duggan was paid everything due him under the terms of his contract. It adheres to its policy which considers any contract between itself and talent a private matter.

Opinion ran that no one in Chicago would touch him after the final split, but WBKB came up with a contract. The ABC agreement does not place restrictions on Tom, but it's a short term affair. Also the Chicago American is giving him column space—strictly for the love of circulation. But after this, what?

Would Leave City

Tom stoically says that if Chicago doesn't want him, he'll leave. He claims he's kicked his toes against a wall for a long time, and it's beginning to hurt. The spirited sportscaster is not foolish enough to play, in his inimitable way, the staunch defender of truth and justice, when he sees his efforts are futile. Defeated? —No . . . but smart enough to be realistic.

He shows a humble spirit and is a bit fed up with the shallow and superficial side of show business. Tom, who has sought to inspire others to believe in their convictions, may profit from his great Chicago epic. The Duggan spirit isn't broken, nor even slightly bent, but unfortunately, this outspoken fellow can't plan on paying his bills with courage.
Boys and girls, this young fellow appears to be off on a dangerous mission. You probably recognize him. He's "Rod Brown of the Rocket Rangers." This exciting space adventure series is seen every Saturday on WBBM-TV at 10:30 a.m. In that fine uniform and helmet, he looks as if he's ready for trouble of any kind.

TV People: Congratulations to John H Mitchell and Sterling "Red" Quinlan, of ABC's Chicago staff. Mitchell, former vice-president in charge of WBKB, moves to new post July 1 as vice-president in charge of WABC-TV in New York. Quinlan, former program director of WBKB, moves up to general manager of WBKB and WENR. The move is reportedly one step toward grooming Chicago for a major role as an ABC program center.

Speedy recovery to Marty O'Shaughnessy, former editor of TV Forecast, who's getting some medical treatments at a Rochester, Minn., hospital after returning from a Florida vacation.

Don McNeill and all the Breakfast Clubbers will plant 20 candles on their birthday cake come June 23. The gang will celebrate their anniversary with a simulcast on ABC's radio and TV networks. Breakfast Club deserves a rousing ovation—it's one of the oldest and most successful Chicago-originated network productions. The show's present vocalist Peggy Taylor is anticipating some new record releases soon, another step upward for the lovely Peg.

Twenty-two young Ken Nordine fans have adopted a calling card decorated with black bats. Most of the 10-year-olds will be missing their hero, though. Ken weaves his black magic on Pages In The Window at 11:45 p.m. Thursdays.

Come Back, Little Show: Pattern For Living, teen-agers' popular religious program, is taking a long time coming back. WBKB is reportedly looking for a suitable time slot.

THIS WEEK'S NETWORK FIGHTS

(Special to change. Champions are not rated.
No. 1 in each division is top contender.)

Friday, June 12th, NBC

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP: JAMES CARTER vs. GEORGE ARAUJO, from New York.

This is a real tough fight to figure. They are evenly matched. Where one lacks something, the other has it.

Carter is fresh from a one-sided victory over another New Englander. The Collins match didn't take anything out of the champ. In fact, it wasn't even a good workout.

Carter is favored on his strong right hand. He'll put it to good use against the challenger, who is a converted southpaw. But to win, he must force the fight against the fleet-footed lad from Rhode Island.

Araujo has plenty of speed, both afoot and with his hands. He dances in and out and from side to side. This may baffle the champ in the early rounds, but Carter, a good campaigner, will show his best as the bout comes down to the closing rounds.

Saturday, June 13th, ABC

CHARLEY GOULART vs. WILBUR WIL-SON (middleweights), from Boston.

A toss-up. Promoter Sam Silverman presents a couple of local youngsters in this Saturday showing. What they lack in rating, he promises they'll make up in thrills.

Wilson has faced some experienced ringmen in Johnny Bruton, Vic Cardell, and Don Williams. Although on the losing side, he gained valuable experience against these top-notchers.

Goulart's record is on a par with his opponent's, although most of his foes have been novices. Charley is a good puncher, scoring knockouts in half his fights.

Wednesday, June 17th, CBS

ROCKY CASTELLANI vs. PIERRE LANG-LOIS (middleweights), from Cleveland.

Castellani is favored in this return match. Langlois won a disputed 12-round decision on February 6th at Madison Square Garden. Langlois has been quite active since, boxing three times, his last bout being a setback from Joe Rindone.

Castellani, meanwhile, has had a one-round workout. His busy left jab kept the Frenchman at bay in their first meeting and should be just as active in this bout. Pierre is boxing a bit too often to be effective.

JACK BEGUN, Chicago boxing promoter, manager, and International Boxing Club antagonist, plans to revolutionize televised boxing shows. The plucky promoter hopes to stage major prize fights in television studios or theatres.

The idea, says Begun, is to hold the fights in studios with capacities of 1,000 seats. The boxers would be paid $12,500 each. Admission would start at $10 per ticket without the usual preliminary card preceding the main attraction.

While petitioning the Illinois Athletic Commission for approval, Begun revealed at least 19 of the 39 scheduled bouts would originate from Chicago. "We'll pay the fighters as television performers," he said . . . The entire scheme hinges on the approval of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Although Jack Begun petitioned the IAC, the real brains reportedly behind the operation is Tom Duggan . . . The law requires the promoter be licensed and with Duggan's relationship with the IAC near the breaking point—Begun was the logical choice. Duggan's experience and influence in the TV industry combined with Begun's boxing contacts can prove a successful combo. We are assuming Duggan is Begun's silent partner at this writing. But should Duggan suddenly turn up as the show's sportscaster, it would confirm our suspicions.

The idea of producing TV-studio boxing shows is not new . . . Bishop Sheil's popular CYO boxing shows were packaged for WBBM-TV last December. The weekly CYO bouts were to be televised directly from the stage of the Garrick Theatre and may still be available to suitable sponsors.

Before Livingstone Osborne took the helm of the boxing commission, his predecessor, Joe Triner, vetoed a similar plan several years ago when a local TV station requested permission to promote studio-produced boxing shows . . . The license was denied largely on the threatened loss of tax revenue from its limited audience . . . Duggan and Begun will not only run up against the tax problem, but they'll have to contend with the powerful International Boxing Club which controls most name fighters actively engaged in boxing today. Surely a sponsor is entitled to the best boxers after paying $25,000 to the fighters, another $50,000 for network time, and additional thousands on advertising . . . It's a novel idea to say the least!

Join Dick Bingham and Ed Pazdur every Sunday night, 10:00 p.m., WBBM-TV for HFC stock car racing from Soldier Field and keep score with Ed and Jack Drees every Monday, WBKB, 8:00 p.m., on Pontiac's Boxing From Reinsbo show.

DICTIONARY
FOR DRAGNET

by WM. A. QUE

WE UNDERSTAND THAT quite a number of you listeners have been mystified by some of the special
"cop" terms and slang used on Dragnet, the police story show broadcast over WMAQ every Sunday night at 8:30 P.M. and televised by WNBQ,
Channel 5, at 8:00 P.M. on Thursday nights.

It’s not difficult to understand your bewilderment. When Sgt. Joe Friday (enacted by Jack Webb) and Detective Frank Smith
(portrayed by Ben Alexander) use those strange
terms and words, they’re not trying to “snow”
you—their purpose is to use the jargon that’s an everyday, authentic part of police life.

Here are the definitions for a few of the frequently-used phrases you’ll hear on Dragnet:

DMV—Department of Motor Vehicles . . . APB—All Points Bulletin . . .
MWA—Male, White, American . . .
R & I—Record and Identification Bureau . . . Package—A criminal’s record . . . MO—A criminal’s method of operation . . . Mugg Shots—Photos taken of an offender at the time of arrest . . . Stakeout—A surveillance post . . . 4127A LAMC—A drunk (pretty unwieldy monicker for a tipper, isn’t it?) . . . Code 3—Emergency run with flashing lights and siren in operation . . . Bunco—A crime in which money is obtained by fraud and misrepresentation.

If you’re a Draget fan, remember the radio version over WMAQ on Sunday nights. You’ll get the same enjoyment you get from television.

1:00 4 LATE WORLD NEWS
(Stations reserve the right to change above listings without notice)
DEAR BOSS:

How do you like that actress who's been starring in Studio One lately? You know, the dame with the name like an Italian hotrod and an English University: Mercedes McCambridge.

Her face isn't sensational, her voice is a canary pitch and her figure could hardly be called hour-glass -- hardly even half-hour -- but by the end of the drama you forget all that. You even forget she talks without opening her mouth like she was afraid her mouth might wash it out with soap any minute. You just forget everything and sigh, "What a beautiful dame... what a beautiful dame!"

After watching Channel 4's new Luncheon with Billy and Music Counter shows I am tempted to look again at the call letters of that station. It is WBBM-TV isn't it? Oh well, WBBM was radio for lo these many years and quite good at it too, I'm told. I guess we shouldn't expect them to come up with anything terrific in TV for a few more years. They still got that closet full of old radio shows to televise first.

What made the CP Telethon memorable to me wasn't the Hope or the Martin or the Lewis (dedicated as the TV luminaries were to their unselfish task.) No, the stars that really shone into my living room were the CP victims themselves.

The frankness and almost good humor with which they discussed their handicaps and their insistence on being treated just like the rest of us--well that must have taken the kind of courage we can only wonder at, never describe adequately. The Central Bank could never hold all the money--if we had all matched their courage with our dollars.

If there's one sport that doesn't have to worry about TV cutting into its gate receipts, it's the sport of kings—horse racing.

CBS will complete its coverage of the Triple Crown races with the Belmont Stakes this Saturday (June 13), after carrying the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, both of which drew huge throngs despite TV. NBC's program included 10 Saturday races from New York tracks, the series being completed with the feature race from Aqueduct on June 20. Any and then settle back in comfort to watch the thoroughbreds streak across the finish line.

That easy out, according to some big league baseball magnates, boxing promoters and college football associations, is what has been hurting their sports during the last few years. As TV coverage increases, they say, the gate receipts tumble. But not so with the race tracks.

The Tracks Are Jammed

Despite the availability of major races in the Nation's living rooms, a sunny Saturday afternoon saw thousands cram their way into grandstand and clubhouse. New York's Jamaica track, originally built to hold 25,000 has drawn up to 50,000.

How many of these trackside fans brave the crowds and weather because they're interested solely in improvement of the breed is, of course, another matter. The fact that TV receivers are not yet equipped with parimutuel windows might have something to do with it. And since it is fairly difficult for setside track fans to back their favorites any place but at the track, the racing associations need have little worry about TV cutting into their gate receipts.

Pony Auction Is Lure

NBC and the Gillette Safety Razor Co., which sponsors the racing pick-ups, have teamed with the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund this year to help make race track televising possible. Gillette contributed a pure-bred pony each week, which was auctioned off to the highest bidder from among the viewing and listening public (the races are also broadcast via radio). All money was then turned over to the Runyon fund. Sammy Renick, an ex-jockey, showed the ponies to viewers as he interviewed the rider and owner of each winning horse immediately after the race.

NBC's mammoth remote pickup truck has been driven out to the track each Saturday, from where the technicians work. Bill Garden, the producer, supervises the racing pickup from his specially constructed booth in the stands, calling the shots to the cameramen posted atop the clubhouse roof. For set-owners actually interested in horse racing as a sport, the TV cameras bring them a much better view of the action than they would get from almost any vantage point at the track.

Colorful, crowded Jamaica on typical day. Those thousands only want a winner.
TV in the news

WHILE zooming over the rooftops in Belmar, New Jersey, an Air Force jet scooped up a twenty-eight foot television aerial and directional tuning motor off the roof of Raymond Crowther.

Harvard flatly refused to abide by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 1953 TV ruling on limited college football telecasts. Twelve other colleges voted against the plan, and opponents hope that more open defiance will develop now that Harvard is on record.

In some French villages, community officials have organized "teleclubs" in schoolhouses where townspeople can watch TV programs. For many persons, it's not only their first glimpse of television but also their first taste of motion pictures.

As a test, New York's Yankees tried an experimental TV blackout. Club officials admitted the arrangement was inconclusive although gate attendance rose 5000 over the corresponding game last year.

Following the educational TV pattern among American cities, Syracuse (N. Y.) now has a seven-program-a-week school series on television and radio. School Supervisor David H. Patton reports that expenses for the programs are virtually non-existent. The stations are donating free time.

West Coast TV and radio stations are waging an all-out war on "professional" giveaway program guests at their studios. Station managers report that as many as 300 persons constantly usurp seats from the bona-fide visitors, trying to appear on the programs and walk off with the highly remunerative "loot." Steps are being taken to give "amateurs" a chance.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

MASSACHUSETTS bars TV coverage of the Legislature. It seems the boys were acting on everything but legislation.

The Legislature decided that TV, like pineapple, brings out the flavor of ham.

With TV, the guy from a small hamlet acts as if he were playing in it. Everytime a senator introduces an act, everybody tries to get into it. The secretary can't even call the roll without everybody playing a small role.

There hasn't been so much acting involving senators since the last performance of Julius Caesar.

It seems the Boston TV party produced more action than the Boston Tea Party. One fellow introduced a measure to increase the bounty on skunks and delivered a bigger oration than Patrick Henry. His speech began: "I care not who makes the Nation's laws as long as I can make its TV screens."

It was the first time the sergeant-at-arms got elbowed right out of the picture.

The boys did enough acting over every plain old bill to win a fancy new Oscar.
ALTHOUGH Nancy Remington with the Buster Brown haircut may not cause pulses to quicken among the male viewers of the Wally Cox show, her mere presence is often enough to throw Mr. Peepers into a starry-eyed trance. But whatever Mr. Peepers sees in her, most people find the slender, 25-year-old school nurse played by Patricia Benoit, withdrawn and shy. "I've always been the kind of person who never talked to people," she confessed, "But I'm beginning to enjoy it now."

Coming out of her shell, Pat is beginning to enjoy other things: money in the bank, fame—"People stop me on the street because they can't imagine what Nancy is doing there," and a degree of success—"I've always wanted to be an actress but I never thought I'd be doing comedy."

Pat and her sister, who is now a fashion artist, left their home town of Fort Worth, Tex., at the ages of 19 and 20 respectively. Pat studied dramatics in New York at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts for two years, played in summer stock and along the Straw Hat Circuit. Through a Greenwich Village production of The Young and the Fair, she was brought to the attention of an agent who signed her for the role of Signe Hasso's stage daughter in Glad Tidings. Rave reviews for her Broadway debut led to TV offers and finally, the Mr. Peepers show.

Working regularly, she dates only when she has the time. Her days are taken up with rehearsals; evenings with dramatic classes and dancing lessons, "primarily body movement." She hasn't pin-pointed her ideal mate but says, "I've always gone with quiet men." She thinks, "Wally Cox would make an interesting husband."

Not the domestic type, Pat says, "refinishing furniture is more fun than sewing."

Pat is sure she and Nancy Remington are the same girl but director of the show, Hal Keith, points out a difference. "Pat," he says, "is analytical, ambitious and artistic. Nancy is none of these things." According to Pat, Nancy has one quality to be envied—poise. She says, "I wish Pat had some, too."
TV SET-OWNERS constitute two extreme factions on the question of Bob and Ray. Either they consider the show the greatest, or else they think it’s not worth tuning in. Unfortunately, the latter group outnumbers the former by better than 2 to 1. This means that the zany comedy team’s contribution to the betterment of TV humor will probably once more be short-lived (NBC, Monday nights).

Made Several Attempts

Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding have had several attempts at network TV in the past. The show was canceled each time, partly because of little audience interest but mostly because of no sponsor interest. The funsters have not given in to their critics, retaining the same type of humor on this new show as they used previously. So probably only the Bob and Ray faddists will again be watching.

Actually, the show seems to be caught on the horns of its own dilemma. Bob and Ray are talented enough so that a slight concession to the more popular brand of TV humor would probably bring them a larger audience. But at the same time, this would mar their creative individuality. Their problem has not yet been solved.

The program follows its own merry way in lampooning some of our most cherished institutions, such as radio and TV soap operas. The humor dished out by the comedy team is caustic and witty. They rely considerably on mechanical props to dress up their routines. One drawback is the show’s leisurely pace, which sometimes slows the quarter-hour down to a walk.

Bob and Ray seldom pull punches in their satire. Such items as their take off on TV’s Danger show or the serialized version of “Mary Backstage, Noble Wife,” often takes their particular brand of whimsy past the tongue-in-cheek stage. They carry it off with such aplomb, though, that it seldom becomes objectionable. Their demonstration of various “kits”, which they offer at specially-reduced prices, is a funny and much-needed dig at TV’s mail-order advertisers.

Audrey Adds Beauty

The comedy team is lucky in having Audrey Meadows as its straight-girl. Besides adding beauty and charm to the show, she’s a fine comedienne. Her uninhibited contributions to the Bob and Ray shenanigans are first-rate. Bob Denton plays a straightforward announcer for the pair, consistently doing an A-1 job.

Since the show has no sponsor, NBC hasn’t given the comedians much of a production budget. Sets are practically non-existent but luckily, Bob and Ray don’t need such folderol.
ETHEL AND ALBERT holds the unusual distinction of being able to sustain viewer interest for a half-hour each week with only two people on the screen most of the time. Those two are Peg Lynch and Alan Bunce who play the title roles. That they succeed so well in making the program a warm and humorous family comedy is a tribute both to their acting ability and to the creative mind of Miss Lynch, who writes the program (NBC, Saturday nights).

The show is not one of those affairs which relies on slapstick or incongruous situations. Rather it is a leisurely and honest attempt to capture on the TV screen the funny little incidents of everyday living that could happen to any average middle-class couple. As a result, don't expect yocks when you watch the show. The humor dispensed is more of the chuckle-some variety.

Ethel and Albert has had a long career in both radio and TV. It went on the air in 1944 (with Richard Widmark playing the role of Albert) and broke into TV two years ago as a featured segment of the Kate Smith program. In all her script writing, Miss Lynch evidences the same type of discerning eye that Gertrude Berg displayed in writing The Goldbergs. She can turn minor events into funny situations, capturing faithfully not only the flavor of such incidents but also the dialogue.

Both Miss Lynch and Bunce epitomize the roles they play.

Ethel and Albert is a warmly pleasant little show which comes as a welcome relief to some of the more frantic situation comedies on TV.

CAPSULE CRITIQUE

Fred Warin and his Pennsylvanians (CBS) have been a national institution for years, and their Sunday night TV program ranks among the best musical offerings on the networks. The soloists and singing and dancing groups give fine treatment to the tunes and the large orchestra provides excellent musical backing.

JOHNS HOPKINS SCIENCE REVIEW (DuMont) is an attempt by a major TV network to telescast a straight educational program. The show is well-produced and usually interesting, even though no effort is made to lighten the load by dressing it up in fancy trappings. With members of the Johns Hopkins faculty, as well as other educators, as guests, the program deals with medical and scientific research.—R. S.
The How, What and Why Of TV's Johnny-Come-Lately

Here are the things every television knobtwirler should know about the industry's fastest growing Johnny-Come-Lately—UHF.

Eventually, UHF will provide the channels for about 75 percent of all the television stations in the United States, including some in your town, whose programs you will want to see.

Television got started in what the electronics engineers call the VHF, or "Very High Frequency" portion of the spectrum. The first 12 channels and all of the first hundred or more stations are located there. Today, 139 of the 167 TV stations are VHF.

But it is impossible to shoehorn more than 500 stations onto those channels. So, the Federal Communications Commission staked out 70 channels in the UHF, or "Ultra High Frequency" area. They will accommodate more than 2000 stations. Already 28 are operating in 17 states.

The FCC plan provides UHF channels everywhere—including the large cities where three to seven VHF stations are already operating. For instance, Philadelphia has been given four UHF channels; Chicago, five; Baltimore, three; New York, Washington and San Francisco, two each.

Most of the small cities of the Nation will have only UHF stations. This poses several questions for the great and growing legion of TV fans—What do I do to get UHF on my set? What kind of a set should I buy if I don't have one now? How much will they cost? Will the UHF stations carry the same network programs as the VHF stations? What kind of reception does UHF give?

Most manufacturers are now building "all channel" sets which will permit you to tune in on either UHF or VHF. Such sets cost about $50 more than a VHF only, or UHF only, receiver of comparable size.

If you already have a TV receiver, it can be converted in two ways to tune in UHF programs.

The first can be used on the large majority of the sets manufactured... within the last two years. Most of these provide for inserting UHF tuning strips. These strips cost $5 to $10 per channel, plus about $5 more for installation.

If only one or two UHF stations are coming into your area, this would be the cheaper method of conversion.

If more than two UHF stations are coming, the best bet is a converter, or tuner, which sits on top of your receiver. There are several on the market, ranging in price from $40 to $65.

Irrespective of which method you adopt, it is frequently necessary to erect a separate, outside antenna for UHF reception. Including lead-in and installation, that should cost about $25. You can save a little money by attaching the UHF antenna to the VHF mast.

UHF stations do pick up and transmit the same network programs as VHF stations. That does not provide any mechanical difficulty.

What about quality of reception and "bugs"? UHF is still so new that all of the answers aren't in yet, nor have all of the problems been solved.

Edward Allen, chief engineer for the Federal Communications Commission, says that in flat or rolling country, given a favorable transmitter site, a UHF station can transmit its signal from 50 to 100 miles—although pretty weakly for most of the distance. However, that's as good as VHF.

But, when the terrain gets rugged, UHF distance performance falls short of what VHF can do. On the other hand, within normal range (15 to 20 miles from the transmitter) the UHF pictures are frequently clearer.

Reports have been received of favorable reception of Atlantic City programs as far as 35 miles from the transmitter. Despite rough terrain, Scranton and Carbondale, Pa., report excellent reception from the Wilkes-Barre station.

Portland, Ore., first city to have UHF, reports good pictures up to 20 miles from the transmitter and "quite solid coverage" up to 25 miles away.

One of Portland's unpleasant discoveries was that police and taxicab two-way radio systems caused considerable interference with UHF reception. This is being licked.

An odd bit of information from Portland is that pine trees and similar evergreens provide devastating interference in distant, weak signal areas.

Interesting data comes from Reading, Pa., which has two UHF stations but no VHF station. Before the city got its own stations, many Reading people purchased VHF receivers and equipped them with boosters so they could pull in the programs from Philadelphia, 70 miles away. Afterwards, the set owners purchased converters to get the local UHF programs.

Boosters showed up promptly. Converters and boosters have an affinity for providing each other interference.

"This problem will doubtless solve itself," explains Allen, "as new stations spring up in the smaller communities and there is no longer any need to tune in on distant stations."

YOU don't have to have a lot of clothes to be smartly dressed. With a few basic garments of classic cut and good quality and a number of attractive accessories such as scarves, belts, costume jewelry, collars and cuffs, you can create a variety and an individual style.

Kitty D'Alessio, fashion consultant for NBC-TV's costume department, suggests the following garments as the backbone of a satisfactory wardrobe: a good suit, two coats, a basic dress, preferably a simply cut sheath; one dress-up dress, a couple of separate skirts and blouses or jersey tops (for the slim), one frivolous hat and several inexpensive hats, shoes, handbags and gloves.

Here are some tips from Kitty for building and maintaining a smart, but economical wardrobe:

Build up a clothes fund, so you can take advantage of sales. Buy several pairs of marked-down shoes at a time and put away for the following season. Conservative styles will not go out of fashion and may last you, with proper care, for years. Ditto for handbags.

Choose dresses and suits of simple lines and conservative style. Limit novelty to inexpensive accessories.

Your suit should be the most expensive item, with emphasis on fine tailoring and excellence of material. Worsted wool is excellent for wearing quality.

A Basic Dress

A sheath acts as a basic dress. With contrasting or harmonizing jackets, it makes several different costumes. It can double as an evening dress by adding a bouffant skirt of net.

Select simple scarves. Use bright clear colors. Ribbon is good and comparatively inexpensive.

Keep your clothes as simple as possible—simplicity is the essence of smartness.

Separate skirts and blouses are great wardrobe stretchers. A felt skirt is very useful. It can be worn with a high-necked jersey blouse for daytime. Then, change the blouse for a boat-neck, off-the-shoulder blouse, add some jewelry and, voila, you're ready for the theater or dancing.

Above all, Kitty warns, never buy clothes in a hurry or when you're not in the mood. Those are the things that are likely to hang in the closet more often than on your back.
Boxing Suffers
Indoor Pallor

June is the month of brides, bugs and boxing, only one of which need concern us here. It used to be that heavyweights of the first order and their managers and the promoters looked ahead to June. This was the month when the outdoor season opened and the big money fights could go in the ball parks at prices calculated to put everybody except the customers into upper income brackets.

Times have changed, and the notion is that TV is chiefly responsible.

This month there are three championship fights scheduled in this country. One's in Ogden, Utah. The other two, assigned to New York, are both booked indoors because they don't justify full-scale promotion.

The two bouts in Madison Square Garden match Jimmy Carter and Georgie Araujo for the lightweight championship of the world, and Bobo Olson with Paddy Young for the American middleweight title. The one in Ogden is a retread—Archie Moore and Joey Maxim for the world lightweight title which Archie took from Joey last winter.

Where's the heavyweight champion? He fought in May, indoors.

Television has been charged with, and perhaps convicted of, putting the neighborhood fight clubs out of business. It begins to appear that this same medium is driving the big outdoor fights to cover.

At most fights today the television sponsor contributes a bigger share of the swag than the customers do. For example, Rocky Marciano's defense of his heavyweight title against J. J. Walcott drew less at the gate, net, than Gillette paid for the telecast. When the promoter knows that most of his boodle is going to come from the sponsor, who'd just as lief have the bout run privately in a studio, he grows more reluctant to take on the expense of a major outdoor show.

He'll run outdoors now only when he feels confident he has an attraction that will pack the park, and stupid managers contrive to louse him up in this respect. The Marciano-Walcott rematch, for instance, should have been offered last January when memory of the fine first fight between these men was still green. However, the managers horsed around for months and when the bout finally did come off, indoors, there was no time left for an outdoor title fight before September, at the earliest.

Consequently, June finds us wearing an indoor pallor, viewing indoor bouts of relatively small distinction. If anyone wishes to be misled by America's most frequently misguided handicapper, the chances are that:

Carter will retain his title against Araujo in a rough, rousing fight; Olson will smother and subdue Young; Moore will whip Maxim.
